Vocational Profiling is one of the most effective ways to understand what a young person can do, what motivates them, and what support they may need to succeed in adulthood.

Rather than focusing on barriers, Vocational Profiling identifies strengths, interests and potential opportunities, helping practitioners create meaningful pathways towards employment and independence. It can:

- Inform EHCP outcomes and reviews
- Support Preparing for Adulthood planning
- Strengthen careers conversations
- Identify suitable work experience opportunities
- Increase employment aspirations and expectations
